We are looking for compassionate Mental Health professionals to join our team in Albuquerque, New Mexico and provide support through the Multisystemic Therapy program.

The Multisystemic Therapy (MST) role is focused on providing intensive in-home treatment services for up to 6 active clients, empowering families. You'll work to create lasting, strength-based behavioral changes through individual and family counseling, case management, advocacy, and more, within the client's home and community environments.

We provide training upon joining the MST program, along with ongoing professional development to ensure adherence to the model.

Therapist Responsibilities:

- Participate in weekly case planning and evaluations with support from supervisors and team members, including group supervision.
- Use MST principles to leverage family and client strengths, focus on positives, understand behavioral sequences, and promote appropriate behavior.
- Receive ongoing training and professional development in the MST model to build extensive clinical skills.
- Conduct thorough assessments of clients and families to inform treatment planning.
- Engage primary caregivers, family members, and community staff (schools, probation, child welfare) in change-oriented treatment.
- Balance caseloads, clinical contact, paperwork, and case management.
- Provide clinical evaluations and intake screenings to determine treatment needs.
- Offer services both in person and via telehealth, as needed.
- Be available to clients Monday through Friday, with on-call rotation for weekends.

Therapist Qualifications:

- Location Requirement: Candidates must live in or be willing to relocate to Albuquerque, New Mexico or the surrounding areas.
- Strong interpersonal and communication skills, with the ability to build rapport quickly in English and Spanish.
- Detail-oriented, compassionate, and empathetic.
- Ability to manage time and prioritize tasks effectively.

Education and Licensing Requirements:

- Master's degree in counseling or a related field with licensure as LAC, LMHC, LPC, LMSW, LCSW, LAMFT, or LMFT with the State of New Mexico.
